5. Risk management and compliance

5.1 The roles of the Board, Committee and management

Managing risk well is of benefit to the Company and its stakeholders (including its shareholders, employees, customers, suppliers and creditors).

Risks in this document are taken to refer to both financial risk and non-financial risk. Recognising and managing risk is a crucial role of the Board, the Committee and management. Broadly, their roles are:

- The Board's role is to set the risk appetite for the Company (that is, the nature and extent of the risks it is prepared to take to meet its objectives), to oversee its risk management framework and satisfy itself that the framework is sound.

- Management's role is to identify risks, develop and implement the risk management framework, manage and report on risks and monitor that the Company operates within the risk appetite set by the Board.
- The Committee's roles are to:
 - monitor management's performance against the Company's risk management framework, including whether it is operating within the risk appetite set by the Board;
 - review any material incident involving fraud or a breakdown of the Company's risk controls and the "lessons learned";
 - receive reports from internal audit on its reviews of the adequacy of the Company's processes for managing risk;
 - receive reports from management on new and emerging sources of risk and the risk controls and mitigation measures that management has put in place to deal with those risks;
 - make recommendations to the Board in relation to changes that should be made to the Company's risk management framework or to the risk appetite set by the Board; and
 - oversee the Company's insurance program, having regard to the Company's business and the insurable risks associated with its business.

It is recognised that from time to time circumstances may dictate that the Company is required to operate outside of the current risk appetite set by the Board. However, should that occur, the matter should be brought to the attention of the Board.

Committee members must be available to meet with external bodies if requested to do so in accordance with relevant laws, regulations or prudential standards.
